INTRODUCTION

If you are thinking of undertaking a postgraduate course there are a few points you should bear in mind:

- ✓ You may well find that your living expenses are higher and that you need more money than you managed on as an undergraduate.
- ✓ Funding can be hard to come by - the course you are interested in may have no funded places or a limited number for which you must compete to be accepted on to the course.
- ✓ You are likely to need to secure funding from a range of sources.
- ✓ Prospective postgraduate students can claim benefits (providing they meet the normal eligibility criteria) over the summer vacation, between the end of their undergraduate course and the start of the postgraduate course as they aren't considered to be a student during that time.

FUNDING OPPORTUNITIES FROM STUDENT FINANCE

Postgraduate Loan (For English domiciled students only from 16/17)

A Postgraduate Loan of up to £10000 as a contribution towards your course and living costs is available from Student Finance England. If your course is longer than one year you can get up to £5000 in your first year and the rest in your second year. If you are studying part time you can only get payments in the first two years of your course. The amount you get doesn't depend on your household income, and in a similar way to undergraduate student finance it is repayable based on your future income (at 6% of your income when you start to earn £21000).

You can apply online from late June at:
 www.gov.uk/postgraduateloan

RESEARCH & INNOVATION AWARDS

Research Innovation Awards (RIAs) were launched in 2011 with the aim of supporting the continued development of world leading and internationally excellent doctoral level research at Cardiff Metropolitan University.

A call for applications is released on an annual basis, usually during in the summer term. Awards are linked to specific projects which could be based in any of Cardiff Met's academic schools or PDR. Talented graduates wishing to pursue doctoral level study are encouraged to apply.

The PhD bursary consists of the standard tuition fee for a Home/EU student and a stipend linked to the minimum amount set annually by Research Councils UK.

Check the web site below for current opportunities or contact Kate Jefferies:  kajefferies@cardiffmet.ac.uk

Details of other Doctoral Scholarships available through Cardiff Met will also be posted on the above link.

THE CARDIFF MET HARDSHIP FUND

If you are a UK or non UK EU student who is enrolled on a taught, postgraduate programme of study, you may be eligible to apply to the Cardiff Met Hardship Fund. If you find that you are struggling financially during the course of your studies, you can apply for a non-repayable award from the Fund. However, you must be aware that an award from the Fund won't be enough to cover your living costs as a post-graduate student and we aren't allowed to take your tuition fees into account in our calculations, so you must be able to demonstrate how you intend to finance your studies.

For more information or to download an application form, visit our web pages:

OTHER FUNDING OPPORTUNITIES

The Alternative Guide to Postgraduate Funding

The University has registered with The Alternative Guide to Postgraduate Funding- the guide contains a database of funding opportunities and offers guidance and information to assist you in applying for support. To find out more, please see the following link:

 www.postgraduate-funding.com/gateway and enter your Cardiff Met email address, or if a prospective student please contact:  financeadvice@cardiffmet.ac.uk for the Cardiff Met PIN number to allow you to access this.

Government funding from Research Councils

The Research Councils are one of the most important sources of funding for postgraduates in the UK. These bodies are government-funded agencies engaged in the support of research in different disciplines and, therefore, each organisation funds courses in particular subject areas. There is a variety of awards and you will need to check which, if any, is appropriate for your subject.

Competition for Research Council funding is intense and, in many areas, only a small percentage of candidates make a successful application. As a rule of thumb, funding is easier to obtain in science and engineering disciplines than in the arts and social sciences.

To make an application, you should contact the award-making bodies at any time for general information (their web addresses are listed under 'Useful contacts'). From April onwards they should be able to provide you with a list of funded courses.

When you apply for a course, find out whether it is eligible for an award or bursary.

Methods of application and closing dates vary so you will need to obtain information from the appropriate award making body early on and check the procedure carefully. However, applications for awards are often made through the institution where you intend to study so you should be able to get an award application form from the School you are applying to join.

Educational Trusts & Charities

There may be limited funding available from educational trusts and charities; generally only small grants, in the region of £200 to £700, are awarded. There is a lot of competition for the funds and it is very unlikely that you could finance a course entirely from these trusts but they may help to boost your income or pay for a special need.

If you wish to apply for financial help from charities, you should plan well in advance as many charities and trusts meet only once or a few times each year so the timing of your application is important. 'Turn 2 Us' have a free grants search facility which may be a good starting point. 'The Grants Register', published annually by Palgrave Macmillan and 'The Guide to Educational Grants' published annually by the Directory of Social Change have extensive list of grant making trusts. Reference only copies should be available in your local library and should also be available in Cardiff Met Learning Centres.

Some charities may only accept applications in writing.

Professional & Career Development Loans

'Professional and Career Development Loans' are currently provided by Barclays and The Co-Operative Banks. If you are eligible, you can borrow between £300 and £10,000 to fund the course of your choice as long as it leads to employment or enhances job skills.

However, you must remember that it is a commercial loan not a subsidised student loan and you will have to repay it at the end of your studies whether or not you are in work.

or phone helpline on 0800 585 505.

Funding yourself

If all else fails, you may find that you have to fund your studies by relying on savings or a part-time job. For details of current vacancies and advice on job-seeking, speak to the University's Career Development Service: www.cardiffmet.ac.uk/careers

The Students' Union also have details of current vacancies available:

 <http://www.cardiffmetsu.co.uk/jobs/browse/>

Working part-time may seem like the easy option and it may be the most practical for you but you must be realistic about how you are going to fit your work around your studies and you must remember to fit in some time for relaxation too!
