LEADERSHIP FOR COLLABORATION (L4C)

The Leadership for Collaboration Programme is designed and provided by the Creative Leadership and Enterprise Centre at Cardiff Metropolitan University specifically to support and enable managers and leaders from across the Welsh Public Service and larger third sector organisations. The Leadership for Collaboration, now in its 8th year. The programme also offers an optional Postgraduate Certificate (PgC) qualification in Leadership.

More than 100 public service leaders have benefited from the programme and over 90 percent of participants who completed the programme found they were:

- Able to respond quickly to changes and improvements and systematically solved problems.
- Had a greater understanding of themselves and others and what it takes to lead their organisation.
- Developed and implemented strategic and practical plans for the development of their service, department or organisation – improving both efficiency and service quality.

At the core of the Leadership for Collaboration programme is the Strategic Project

The Strategic Project offers delegates the opportunity to 'step up' and to make a real difference by applying their developing leadership skills to create genuine, sustainable and cost effective change.

The Project challenges delegates to deliver a return on their sponsor's investment of their learning of at least 400%. So far, over 30 delegates have developed implemented realistic and achievable plans which has saved over £1m per year whilst maintaining or even enhancing service quality. The modules are targeted at enabling delegates to design and implement change and improvement in their workplace benefitting service-users, communities, their organisation and the Welsh Public Service as a whole.
